38th Parallel in Korea

Korea, though it is naturally thought of as a very small country, has a population of more than thirty millions. The events there have thus a considerable importance in terms of human suffering. They can, moreover, cause a commotion on a far wider scale; a very small stone may in certain circumstances start an avalanche as easily as a boulder.

The division of Korea between North and South could hardly have been permanent. The boundary line along the 38th parallel was too freakish. It had not at the beginning been intended as a political border. It was fixed as part of a military agreement between the Allies for disposing of the Japanese forces when they surrendered; the Russians were to accept the surrender north of the line, the Americans south of the line. But the Russian occupation authorities at once began to interpret the agreement as dividing Korea into separate zones on the same lines as in Germany.

Economically the division could not have been worse contrived. North Korea produced the chemical fertilizers on which the agriculture in South Korea had, under Japanese tutelage, become dependent; by cutting off the supply North Korea reduced the agricultural output of the South by 30 per cent. North Korea also had the electricity and coal which the South needed. For three years the Americans made repeated efforts to undo this unnatural division and to persuade the Russians to co-operate in setting up a unified Korean state. In doing this the Americans often overruled the intransigent politicians of South Korea. The Russians refused to respond. That is the central fact which overshadows all others.

It may be that the South Korean republic which the Americans eventually brought into being was not a very happy creation. At the time of the invasion there were 14,000 political prisoners; the assassination of the leader of the Opposition was an ugly affair. Some of the Southern leaders have openly favored accession to the northern state, and there have been pro-northern mutinies among the police. But the Americans before transferring power did insist on free elections as the governing formula for all their policies. The South Korean Government was brought into being by the general election in May, 1948.

The United Nations Commission on Korea—composed of representatives of Australia, Canada, China, El Salvador, France, India, the Philippines, Syria and the Ukraine—adopted a resolution on the elections (though not unanimously) to the effect that there had prevailed "a reasonable degree of free atmosphere wherein the democratic rights of freedom of speech, press and assembly were recognized and respected." By contrast, the Russians had refused to countenance a united Korea unless anti-Communist leaders and parties were disenfranchised and excluded from public life. Their contribution to the election campaign in South Korea had been the blackmail of threatening to cut off the electricity supply from the North. When they did not like the results of the election they carried out this threat.

The politics of South Korea had just become peculiarly complicated because of the results of last month's elections. President Rhee's party had been badly defeated, but the victors in the constituencies had been chiefly independents. The unsettled question was whether the independents could coalesce to form a government or whether Dr. Rhee's party, though depleted and with a much lower prestige, would carry on as being still the chief organized party in the National Assembly. Three weeks ago the North offered to come to a joint Parliament at Seoul in August which would reunite the country, but the Parliament was to exclude President Rhee and other "national traitors and criminals" and the United Nations North Korean Commission was not to be allowed to interfere. In other words, the Northerners proposed to call a Parliament in the Southern capital made up exclusively of their own friends and the enemies of the South Korean Government. The emissaries who carried the proposal to Seoul were arrested and the invasion followed.

Let's See Mr. Andrew

There are few people in this area who have not crossed or at least heard about the Lake Washington floating bridge at Seattle. To outsiders the bridge is a tourist item, a floating concrete bridge. But to residents of the area it is a model of what a bridge can do to develop an area. The floating bridge is the bridge that couldn't, but has succeeded. Insurance companies had no faith in such a fantastic idea, but the factor which has commended the bridge to the taxpayer is its low cost of both construction and maintenance and its speedy self-payment in tolls. Although 20-year bonds were issued, nine years from the day the bridge was opened to the public it was free of debt and toll-free.

The designer was Charles E. Andrew, engineer, who has the solution of many and unusual bridge problems to his credit. And now he has applied his ability to the finding of a solution to the congested ferry situation from Seattle and environs across Puget Sound to the Olympic Peninsula.

As a result of his studies of this problem Mr. Andrew has come up with another revolutionary idea, equally as startling as his suggestion of a concrete floating bridge was originally.

He proposes a submerged floating tube of twin concrete tunnels, 50 feet below the level of the water and hundreds of feet above the bottom. The sound is from 650 to 800 feet deep which makes all consideration of a structure supported by piers useless. The design calls for four traffic lanes, two in each tube. The tubes will be held in place by enormously heavy cables attached to huge anchors on the bottom. The twin tube will be attached to the land by fixed, open bridges. The tube will be 13,600 feet long and the total length including the shore approaches is just under three miles.

Mr. Andrew explains that while the design is new, the principle of restrained flotation is not new and the tube will be supported by water. One of the most predictable and best known supports. While the proposal as a whole is unique, in detail it involves no new engineering processes. The plan has been widely reviewed by engineering publications. The design of this unique, tide-resisting, submerged floating tube, Mr. Andrew declares, is both safe and feasible, and its operation practical. (Continued on Page 8)

Steps Taken to Collect Delinquent B.C. Hospital Insurance Premiums

An all-out crackdown on delinquent Hospital Insurance Service accounts has been started here.

With some 300 delinquents in the local area in spite of repeated warnings, the Kelowna office is issuing payment orders on those employed and prosecution orders for those retired or employers themselves.

Payment orders are similar to garnishees and are legally binding upon employers of persons who are behind in hospital insurance payments.

Don Johnston, head of the local insurance office, estimated that only five per cent of the local area is behind in accounts. A few of them, he added, will have a large payment to make, never having contributed to the scheme since it started two years ago.

COUNCIL MAY DECIDE TYPE OF LIGHTING

Matter of installing centre street lighting on Mill avenue will probably be settled at tonight's council meeting.

Last week two aldermen were absent on other duties, and the mayor thought it was important that there should be a full council before a definite decision is made.

On a previous occasion, at least two aldermen were opposed to centre lights, claiming they are too much of a traffic hazard.

LEASE BREAKWATER

City Council was advised by T. E. Morrison, department of transport, Victoria, that the city's application to lease the breakwater near the A. J. Jones Boat Works, has been forwarded to Ottawa.

Local Woman Loses Arm In Cannery Machinery

Mrs. William Vallee, 61 years of age, 3001 Pender Street, had her right arm severed a few inches below the shoulder when it was caught in a moving belt at Rowcliffe Canneries at 4:30 p.m. Friday.

The woman was de-stoning apricots which had been imported from California by the cannery company. Cannery workers are notified as to how her arm was caught in the belt as the guards protect the moving machinery. A full investigation will be held tomorrow.

Mrs. Vallee had been working at the cannery three days. It was the

AMEND STORE HOUR BYLAW

City Council last week took steps to amend the shops' closing bylaw extending store hours until 6:30 p.m. on week days with the exception of Wednesdays and Saturdays.

During the brief discussion on the Saturday night closing, it was decided to see if the butchers and grocers would voluntarily remain open until 9 p.m. Last week majority of butchers and grocers signed a petition requesting 9 p.m. closing on Saturdays.

The mayor expressed the opinion that many local citizens go to Vernon on Saturday nights for a three-fold purpose—do their shopping, have a drive in the country, and visit a beverage room if they so desire.

TRADE BOARD HEADS MEET IN VERNON

The B.C. Council of Associated Boards of Trade will hold its next meeting in Vernon on August 12. The organization is composed of the various district associations of boards of trade throughout the province and the Vernon meeting will be the first time that the group has met outside Vancouver.

"Ogo" Scores Major Hit

"When ah saw that dragon comin' at me down the road ah didn't know what it was."

That's what one American from the deep south told a member of the Kelowna caravan on Saturday night at the big "Kelowna Regatta night" in Wenatchee. The "dragon" was the new Ogoogo, a monster of considerable tonnage and a fresh-out-of-the-lake appearance.

Taken to Wenatchee by Frank Hawkey, on his own equipment, "Ogo" made all heads whirl with amazement as the caravan headed south. A police escort met the Kelownians at the junction near Wenatchee, with sirens wide open.

Carnished with Wenatchee bathing beauties, including Apple Blossom Queen Mary Lyle, the Ogoogo float won an immediate ovation. Mayor Pohlmann introduced the Kelowna Regatta boosters to the gathering through Dr. W. Anderson then addressed the crowd briefly.

With Regatta publicity chairman, Babe Nicholson, meing in masterly fashion in the sound truck, all Wenatchee was soon aware that Canada's greatest water show, the 44th Kelowna International Regatta, was being held on Tuesday and Wednesday, August 1 and 2. Furthermore, they were all invited!

At Recreation Park Stadium, three thousand ball fans applauded Ogoogo and his escort for several minutes, members of the caravan then proceeded to hand out Regatta pamphlets and welcome cards. Smartly attired in their popular Regatta yachting caps, the Kelowna boosters made many friends and commanded instant attention.

The biggest "hit" of the ball game was Ogoogo, resulting in a home run publicity stunt for Kelowna's big two day water carnival.

OPEN SCHOOLS TO TORIES FAVOR INDIAN CHILDREN ALL-CANADIAN GAS PIPELINE

Trustees of Kelowna School District 23 are seeking support from other school boards to a move to have British Columbia Indian children educated in the public schools, Kamloops Trustees already have endorsed the resolution.

Westbank's Progressive Conservative Women's Association has gone on record favoring an all-Canadian route for the piping of natural gas from Alberta's oil fields. Resolution to this effect was passed unanimously and will be forwarded to provincial and federal governments.

The Tory women also urged the government to implement the recommendations outlined at the emergency session of the fruit industry which was called to review the disastrous losses to farmers. Dealing with the proposed $5 advance for drivers' licences, the Conservative women urged the provincial government to rescind the amendment to the provincial act immediately and for the continuance of a $1 drivers' licence fee per year. Under the amendment, motorists will pay $5 in advance next year for the privilege of driving a car for five years.

The fruit growers, A situation like this does happen once in a while—it happened year after year in the 30's. This year it was due to overproduction of fruit in North America. There will be good years in the future as there have been in the past."

That sums up the calm, confident review of the present and future position of the Interior fruit grower following low 1949 returns and severe winter injury given by A. K. Loyd, president and general manager of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., when he answered scores of questions put to him by anxious orchardists at a combined meeting of the Vernon and Coldstream B.C. F.G.A. locals on Tuesday night.

The top man in the B.C. fruit industry central sales agency, answered all and all questions in a three and one-half hour session concerning 1949 crop returns and when one or two minor points were raised and when he did not have the figures, he promised to provide them on return to head office at Kelowna.

One thing the fruit situation has gone on at local meetings. Where previously, a maximum of about 50 orchardists would attend a combined meeting of the Vernon and Coldstream locals, recent gatherings have drawn a turnout of record proportions.

Concerned Over R... Tuesday night was no exception. Approximately 150 orchardists, some accompanied by their wives, sat in the sweltering heat of the

Singles Crown Captured By Jimmy Skelton

WHEN the twentieth annual Kelowna Lawn Tennis Club open tournament for the championships of the B.C. Interior concluded late Saturday afternoon, it was not just promptly forgotten as are a lot of other comparable major sports events.

True the four-day meet, the result of more than 10 times as many days' planning and sweating by hard-working committee men and women, didn't draw a record crowd (it was disappointingly small, in fact) but it did produce a record entry list and a calibre of play, speedy action, breath-taking rallies and a host of upsets that will be mullied over for weeks to come.

Early in the tourney it appeared evident that the potent contingent from Vancouver and nearby points would be all the class. But that was about the only turn that proved to be a sure thing.

Favored by hot weather except for a short time during Saturday's finale when one of the last matches had to be postponed for a few minutes by light rain, the championship tourney had the dopests all mixed up. Favorites had a rough time from the start and in only one of the major events did the outcome turn out as predicted.

That was in the open mixed doubles when Walt Stohlberg and Miss Mary Green, both recently crowned singles champions of Vancouver, captured the honors here, defeating last year's titlists, Ed Kemble and Mrs. Marg McLean.

Typical of the unexpected run of things was the finals on Saturday when Jimmy Skelton and Mrs. Marg McLean became the interior singles titleholders.

Skelton's victory was the sweetest of the year for the curly-headed Vancouverite, as it was gained at the expense of Stohlberg, a Canadian Davis Cupper last year, and who nudged Skelton a short time ago in the finals for the Vancouver city crown.

While Mrs. McLean's winning the ladies' crown was not exactly an upset victory over Mrs. Grace Leader, still it was unexpected at the start of the tourney. Miss Green was labelled all the way as the ultimate winner, but she fell to Mrs. Leader in Friday's semi-finals.

The ladies' doubles finals provided another major upset for the day when Miss Green and Mrs. McLean bowed to Mrs. Leader and Mrs. Lovett.

Still another unlooked-for result came in the men's doubles when the deep-tanned duo of Jack Pedlar and Al Zien beat down the defending champs, Derik Leader and Harry Miles, after losing the first set.

Local competitors, undaunted by the big names attending the popular meet, tumbled in the first round in most instances. A few to fare better were Club President Ernie Winter, who won out in the first round but lost to Vancouver's Jack Ritchie in the sixteens; Helen Ahrens and Wendy Earle, who reached the semi-finals of the ladies' doubles before being turned aside by the ultimate winners, Mrs. Leader and Mrs. Lovett.

Whether the local court classic was a financial success in the second year since it was revived after a long lay-off during World War II will not be known until all accounts are in and final figures prepared.

But in every other aspect, H. G. M. Gardner and his tolling committee are gratified with the success of the tournament. "The wind-up came Saturday night when all the scores of competitors were guests of the club at the Aquatic dance."

Virtually all out-of-town players left by car yesterday to be back at their jobs today after a week's celebrating in the Orchard City.

With over $20,000 pledged, as an incentive to others and a splendid gesture of citizenship, it is likely that the balance of $25,000 will be forthcoming in record time.

A photo of the new building will be published in the next issue of The Kelowna Courier. As soon as the desired amount is secured, construction will commence and curlers in Kelowna and district will curl in their own six-sheet rink this coming winter. It will be constructed immediately west of Kelowna and District Memorial Arena.

A special meeting will be held in the board room of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. Friday night at 8:00 o'clock at which time building plans will be submitted to those interested.

Howard Faulkner, of Kelowna, was elected president of the Okanagan-Cariboo-Alaska Highway Association at the annual meeting of that organization held in Kelowna on Friday.

E. Miller, of Wenatchee; E. Dickey, of Revelstoke, and S. Smith, of Kamloops, were named as vice-presidents. R. G. Rutherford was re-elected treasurer and a secretary is to be named by the executive. Directors elected (other than executive officers) were F. Ryall, Vernon; L. Boyce, Cashmere; R. Pickett, Oroville; M. Raymond, Oroville; C. E. Davis, Brewster; D. Gordon, Chelan. Pentiction and Oliver-Osoyoos will name directors at a later date.

Just about all communities from Wenatchee and Cashmere on the south to Revelstoke and Kamloops on the north were represented at the meeting.

Purpose of the association is to encourage travel through the Okanagan Valley north from Wenatchee to link with the Trans-Canada Highway and, eventually up the Cariboo to Alaska. A secondary purpose is to promote better understanding and friendship between the peoples of North Central Washington and the Interior of B.C.

This association is not a new organization. It was formed three decades ago and in the 20's and 30's did much valuable publicity work. During the war, of course, it was dormant, but it again became active two years ago and one of its achievements of that year was a very considerable volume through caravan tour of newspaper writers and radio men from all the important centres in Washington, Oregon and British Columbia. That tour covered the portion of the route from Wenatchee to Revelstoke and Kamloops being boosted by the association. The result was much valuable publicity for the area.

It is the belief of the association that a tremendous opportunity of greatly increasing tourist travel through this area remains to be tapped. The "Highway 97" association is experiencing great success in bringing an increased flow of tourists north from California along "97" to Yakima. There the work of that group stops. It is felt that the Okanagan group should be able to encourage a great percentage of that travel during World War II. In addition, work at Coote Dam and along the two east-west highways, "2" and "10," could divert a very considerable volume through the Okanagan.

While this is the primary purpose of the group, the meeting also decided to encourage the marking of scenic attractions and historical sites. It will also issue a quarterly bulletin carrying information about road conditions and general information about the area to boards of trade and travel bureaus.

Oroville Board of Trade on Friday night rather sprung a surprise on the meeting. That body considered the work of the association important enough to warrant an unsolicited grant and R. Pickett on behalf of the Oroville group presented a cheque for $20.

NEW TITLE

"Mermaids" will be the new name for Lady-of-the-Lake attractions. Previously, the young ladies were designated "Princesses" but the Regatta committee deemed this too common a title.

In an endeavor to find something suitable, and above all original, suggestions were invited. "Mermaids" ties in perfectly with the big water show and the decision was unanimous.

HOUSING LOANS JUMP SHARPLY DURING MAY

Joins loans approved under the National Housing Act reached another all-time high in May, amounting to more than $31,000,000 according to preliminary figures issued today by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. The total at $31,131,241 represents an increase of 167 percent over the $11,651,620 reported for the same month last year.

The preliminary figures for the month's lending operations emphasize the general upward trend in the number of N.H.A. residential units being constructed this year. A total of 3,898 loans were approved to assist in financing the construction of 4,614 units. The comparative figures for May, 1949, show that 1,860 loans were approved for the construction of 2,189 units.

For the first five months of 1950 the total number of joint loans approved under the National Housing Act exceeded the total for the same period in 1949 by more than $58,000,000.

GRATEFUL FOR HELP WITH CONSTIPATION

"My husband spent much money seeking cures for constipation. Not until he began eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN for breakfast did his trouble disappear!" So writes Mrs. Fernand Boudreau, 11 rue Hotel de Ville, L'Abord-Bouffé, Conté Laval, P.Q. One of many unsolicited letters. If you suffer from constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet, do this: Eat an ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily, drink plenty of water. 1 LOYD DISPELS simple. There are 140,000,000 people in Canada and the United States and there were approximately 180,000,000 bushels of apples to sell. "It is not easy to do and still get satisfactory returns for the grower."

In the face of extreme competition, 2,000,000 boxes of B.C. apples were sold in the United States. Towards the end of the season, 1,162,000 were dispatched to Great Britain "to prevent spoilage and waste and to substitute good publicity for bad publicity." The results are not satisfactory to all of you and we know that," Mr. Loyd declared.

Steve Danelluk, director of the B.C.F.G.A., asked the first question of the evening. Had Tree Fruits made application to the government under the Prices Support Act for 37½ cents a box additional? Mr. Loyd replied that the B.C.F.G.A. had made the application.

He explained that the sales agency, as early as October, applied for compensation because growers had been deprived of a market normally theirs and it was not now because of currency and other restrictions. In other words, the plea was based on the absence of markets. The United Kingdom shipment was authorized after consideration of the alternative of making some distribution or leaving the apples in the warehouses and later dumping them.

The Tree Fruits general manager was emphatic in stating there was "no sentiment" involved in this shipment. "We were interested merely in obtaining markets." The 37½ cents a box application is based on the structure of the Prices Support Act and the B.C.F.G.A. has taken an average of the last four years on all grades, varieties and sizes, as compared to this year and the difference is the 37½ cents.

"Whether the government will accept that average and whether it will do anything remains to be seen."

Floor Price

B.C.F.G.A. director for the Coldstream, John Kosty, asked if the fruit industry could get a floor price. "It is hard for the grower to work all year and find the returns lower than the cost of production."

Answered Mr. Loyd: "That depends what view the government takes." Up to now, he explained, the statistics have been a "stop loss" act. A floor price of $1.05 had been set on New Brunswick potatoes in the past and it had been promptly abused, with the result that the government got into trouble.

Dolph Browne asked if Mr. Loyd had any information or evidence on what other apple producing districts got in returns. The Nova Scotia net to growers was approximately 65 cents, Ontario 70 cents and the Okanagan 65 cents. Washington and other Washington growers were down $1.15 a box from their returns last year.

"It is impossible when the country is glutted with apples to get the prices you want. We can not get you more than the market."

Steve Gill voiced his complaint that he got only five cents a box for his apples. They were of Grimes Golden variety and Mr. Loyd answered that at length, including a review of the Wealthy apple situation.

Freight Rates

Grimes are not readily saleable on the market but despite that a pool had been conducted each year by a grower committee. Over the years have been sold, but Grimes often take out of the pool instead of paying into it.

The Wealthy is a good apple but the Western public wants Macs not Wealthies and when sales encroach on the Mac season the Wealthy can only be kept moving at a discount. Anybody growing Wealthies should try to provide a 2½ inch apple with some color, Mr. Loyd advised.

Another hopeful note was struck at this point when Mr. Loyd said prices should be better this year. "Everybody was down last year but I think we got you back more than most."

Tree Fruits marketed 3,000,000 boxes of apples last year, and 40 percent of the crop and that did not make the sales job any easier. The growers were told the agency can handle 25 to 30 percent but not 40 percent.

The Valley has a freight haulage of from 6 cents to $1.25 a box for the produce can even reach the market. For example, Quebec fruit has as little as 10 miles to go into Montreal, whereas the Valley has 2,000 miles.

This touched off discussion on freight rates, several growers revealing they were unaware of the continuing fight being waged by the B.C.F.G.A., Tree Fruits and the B.C. Federation of Agriculture. Mr. Loyd sent to the meeting copy letters sent directly to the presidents of the two railway companies.

$2,000,000 Grant

Later on, both locals joined in sending a resolution through the B.C.F.G.A. executive to the railroads, asking that the latest increase be delayed or that fruit be exempt from the increased charges.

Referring to the $2,000,000 federal grant voted earlier in the year, Mr. Loyd said it should arrive before the end of the week and it will be placed in the general pool for distribution. A large appropriation was requested but without success. To his critics, Mr. Loyd said: "Go up and tackle Abbott and Howe and see if you get any better."

better." The $2,000,000 from the government based on the shipment to the United Kingdom, in part, was approximately the return that would not be received on the market.

Again came a series of questions of apples and other fruits not being available on the prairies. Several growers maintained that friends were not able to purchase the fruit they wanted. Mr. Loyd said this was a frequent complaint but "there are very few places that have not been covered." He said a questionnaire was being prepared which grower would be asked to write the date, name of the city, store and fruit. "We are just as interested as the growers." Handling charges of 15 cents for culls were the basis of further discussion and the orchardists were advised to take this up with their packings.

One grower thought that all culls should be discarded and cee grade sent to the processors instead of the culls. Others were in favor of bulk shipment of orchard run for part of the crop and Mr. Loyd gave details of results of past experiments.

F. Wilbee, one of the more vociferous at the meeting and a critic of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., asked if Mr. Loyd still insisted that an apple was not suitable until it was wrapped.

High Reputation

Mr. Loyd replied that he did not insist at all but he thought it was better for the industry as a whole to keep its high reputation for quality and give the public what it asks for.

Mr. Wilbee said that if he thought Mr. Loyd to be sincere in that statement he would not know what to say. But his experience of more than 20 years would not permit him to accept that statement. He said he knew of five fellows in the past who had been promptly abused, with the result that the government got into trouble.

Dolph Browne asked at what price they were sold. How much of that would come back to the growers? "We are just as interested as the growers," Mr. Loyd replied.

Later he said he went into stores in Vancouver where apples had been sold. The fruit had been "bootlegged" from "Armstrong all the way down the Valley."

Shouted Mr. Wilbee: "If I get a chance to bootleg, I am going to do it."

Another newcomer to the industry asked if officials or growers could ascertain the profit made by the packings. Asked Dolph Browne: "Would you like to buy some?"

Sam Homenchuk questioned the statements made about large apples not being sold on the prairies. He thought they would be very acceptable. Mr. Loyd said they would if they were being sold by the box but apples were sold principally by the pound.

Later, Mr. Homenchuk asked how many tons of Wealthies the canneries were going to take. Mr. Loyd replied: "I don't know." Mr. Homenchuk: "Why not?" Mr. Loyd: "How many tons of Wealthies have you got?" Mr. Homenchuk: "I don't know." Mr. Loyd: "Why not? You should know better."

If the 37½ cents a box plea under the Prices Support Act is not obtained, Mr. Loyd said the next step would be up to the growers and the B.C.F.G.A.

Reduce Salaries

At a late hour and towards the end of the meeting, when many had left, Mrs. M. Mackie directed a series of questions to the effect that growers' returns were down, and why were not salaries of fruit industry officers correspondingly reduced?

Expenses are being carefully watched, Mr. Loyd replied, "but there is a point beyond which we cannot go."

Growers are at full liberty to "blow the man down" but that is only reduction of salary, Mr. Loyd declared, adding that he could not accept the responsibility of training green staff to handle the difficult and intricate problems of the agency.

The tone of the questions were such that several veteran B.C.F.G.A. members immediately rallied to the defence of the industry's central organizations. W. T. Cameron, B.C. president, pointed out that at a B.C.F.G.A. convention several years ago attempts were made to increase the remuneration of the president but Mr. Loyd would accept no more money.

Dolph Browne, Vernon shipper, declared that on formation of the agency Okanagan shippers agreed to enter the scheme solely on the understanding that Mr. Loyd would be accepted the chief office because of his "absolutely honest and fair in every way and Howe and see if you get any better."

IN THE ARMY

Next time Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, Chief of the General Staff, drives past, watch for the new flag flying from his staff car.

The flag—which no soldier will fail to salute—is an oblong of melton cloth divided into three horizontal stripes of red, black and red with the army badge superimposed. Incidentally, the army badge is three maple leaves on crossed swords topped by a crown.

The flag will be flown on all motor cars carrying General Foulkes, and will accompany him on his travels.

Names of Canadian artillery officers who gave their lives in the Second World War are to be included in a Book of Remembrance honoring British gunner-officers in the Sandhurst Chapel, England.

A memorial pew marked by a Royal Canadian Artillery cap badge with the words "Royal Canadian Artillery" engraved on a scroll beneath the badge, also is planned for the Chapel. Estimated cost of the memorial is $400.

The gunners will be further honored here in Canada. At a recent meeting of the Royal Canadian Artillery Association it was decided that the association would assist in furnishing permanent Roman Catholic and Protestant chapels to be erected at the artillery camps at Shilo, Man., and Picton, Ont. Gift made to the chapels will be dedicated to the memory of RCA officers killed in action.

IN THE AIR FORCE

Saturday, June 24, was Newfoundland Day, the 43rd anniversary of the discovery of Newfoundland by John Cabot, and at 10 p.m. E.D.T., a message was started on its way from the Premier of Canada's tenth province at St. John's, to the premiers of the provinces across the Dominion.

The message was transmitted by the Air Force Amateur Radio System in a network of stations from St. John's to Vancouver. The air force system consists of a group of 500 radio amateurs, many of them air force veterans, now civilians, organized and controlled by Air Force Director of Signals, Group Captain E. A. Hutton.

Referring to the celebration in Newfoundland in the 150 word message, Premier Smallwood said, "This active representation of all the provincial governments goes far to convey to our Newfoundland people the tremendous fact that Newfoundland is no longer alone but rather is one of a great family of British democracies, federally united in a great and growing British nation."

The AFARS members were able to relay the message to every provincial capital and stood by to pass return messages from provincial premiers to Premier Smallwood. AFARS was very active in the recent Winnipeg flood passing many emergency messages.

Believed the biggest picture mosaic ever produced in Canada, the RCA's must display aerial mosaic of the rampant Red River valley flood is off again, this time to visit Hamilton, Ont., as a participant in the campaign of the "Ambitious City" for Winnipeg Flood Relief.

The mosaic, over 50 feet long and 10 feet high, is composed of over 450 pictures, taken in overlapping strips by one of the RCA's aerial photographic Dakota aircraft which flew from Ottawa to Winnipeg to complete the rush picture job when the floods were at their peak. The City of Winnipeg takes up an area of about 25 square feet at one end of the mosaic and reproduction is so clear that individual houses and cars can be picked out. The same process used in making up this big mosaic are used in the RCA's program of photographing Canada for mapping purposes.

IN THE NAVY

Now in its second year of operation, the Maritime Museum at the Naval dockyard, Halifax, is fast building up an enviable collection of relics and documents pertaining to Canada's maritime history. The museum is the project of a group of interested naval officers and civilians on the East Coast, and includes such varied display pieces as a Gatling Gun, U-boat equipment, one of the Kaiser's battle flags, Hitler's bunting, ship models and many other items.

It was, and is, the hope of the founders that the museum would eventually grow and assume a position of national importance, and to this end they are giving their time and energies. They are anxious to add new items to the museum's collection and would welcome contributions either directly or on loan.

The name Maritime Museum was particularly chosen because of the inextricable link between the navy and the merchant service in Canadian naval history.

Most Canadians associate naval operational bases with the Atlantic or Pacific coasts, but the inland city of Kingston, Ontario, has something to say about this. It was one of the big naval and shipbuilding centres of the war of 1812.

When war was declared, the British were unprepared to fight at sea and the rapids of the St. Lawrence River prevented the ascent of warships from the Atlantic into Lake Ontario. For the early part of the conflict, all types of cutters, schooners and sloops were diverted from their normal commercial pursuits and pressed into service. But in the meantime, the Royal Naval Dockyard located at the present site of the Royal Military College, was engaged in building up the British fleet. And before the end of the war, warships more powerful than many ocean-going types were sailing Lake Ontario. When the peace was signed, the striking force of His Majesty's Navy based at Kingston included the battleship St. Lawrence—a 3,000 ton three-decker vessel manned by a crew of 1,000—the frigates and sloops, the Prince Regent, the Princess Charlotte, the Royal George, the Wolfe, the Earl of Moira and the choicer Beresford.

Of all beasts, the elephant is probably the most sagacious. He never forgets. No one ever thought of anyone training the big fellows except men until a few years ago. But woman is coming into her own. Lady police women, lady politicians. But the latest are lady elephant trainers. They are rapidly forging to the front in this line, avers Miss Josephine Miao, famous trainer with the Great King Bros. Circus coming to Kelowna on Wednesday, July 19 for performances at 2 and 8 p.m. "Our circus carries a herd of elephants and most of them are trained in all sorts of difficult elephant performances," declared Miss Miao recently. "A task requiring patience and perseverance, and a close continuous study of the nature of each individual animal. After a lapse of half a century the elephant will conduct this performance as perfectly as if but 24 hours had gone by. "There are two distinct species of elephants. The Asiatic differs from the African, not only in its greater size and in the characteristics of the teeth and skull, but also in the comparative small form of the ears. The intelligence of the former class is greater, too, than that of the African brute." Miss Miao's chief claim to fame as an elephant trainer lies in the terpsichorean ability of the herd she works. With surprising skill they dance the Carioca and the Continental. Yeah, our old friend the elephant is surely going places.

Our Town

By JACK SCOTT

A BAD LOSER

Once more we are in the throes of the racing season and my wife has that certain tightness about the lips. Women are so unreasonable. Only yesterday, summoning my last dram of courage, I announced that I was off again to "clean up on the horses" and she handed me a scrubbing brush, allowing her lip to curl in a most alarming fashion.

It isn't that my wife objects to me going to the races. It's just that she objects to me losing at the races. It occurs to me that if I were a consistent winner she might even encourage me to visit the track. One of these days I am going to win at the races. A whole new world is going to open up for me.

It's those X-ray eyes of hers that beat me. Let us suppose, for example, that I have lost $8 at the races, which is what I usually lose. Now, by an involved system of bookkeeping, I might disguise the fact from my wife. My cheque was a little smaller this week, I could tell her. Or an old friend came in who needed a hand-out. Or I had to contribute to some collection for a marriage in the office. After all, a New York banker covered up on a shortage of $800,000 for seven months. Surely I can get away with eight bucks for a few minutes.

But no. When I come home laughing jauntily and full of little witticisms, my wife chills me with That Look. "Well, Diamond Jim," she says, "how much this time?" "Bad day," I announce casually. "Lost nearly a dollar." "You have your eight-dollar look," my wife says, having fixed me with those twin lie-detectors.

There is nothing for me to do but shrug, bribe her with the suggestion that we go out to dinner and take it like a man. "Well," I usually say, "you can't win every time." And the house is filled with the sound of laughter.

It isn't that the betting lust has completely dimmed my view of the finer things of racing. I still get a thrill when they come out of the gate with the jockey shouting and the field moving into position. At least I do if my little old heart is still with them.

I get a pounding of the pulses when a horse starts coming from behind on the last turn, pulling out as if he were drawn by wires. Or, at least, I do if it happens to be mine. I love to see the big crowd and be a part of its tenseness, love the feeling of sport and chance. Love it all right up to the end of the first race when I am two clams in the hole. Then the old look of animal cunning comes across my kisser and it is just me, the horse and fat locked in titanic struggle.

It's been years since I saw more than one horse in a race—the one staggering along under the animal cunning comes across my kisser and it is just me, the horse and fat locked in titanic struggle. The rest are just a sort of blur, just some vague movement out there ahead of mine.

Lord knows I am equipped to find the winner. I can hardly get around under the weight of form sheets, pink, green and blue sheets, newspaper selections and other printed matter. I am so loaded with information that it's a rare race in which I haven't been touted on every single horse. Within the limits of my puny budget I have worked every system except one that would pay off.

Local Building Values Well Over 1949 Figures

BUILDING values during the first six months of the year almost doubled those for the corresponding period in 1949, according to figures released this week by A. E. Clark, building inspector.

Topped by an $80,940 permit for the construction of a school auditorium; a $75,000 winery for the Calona Wines Ltd. and a $44,623 garage for Victory Motors, June construction values totalled $296,488 to bring the six-month figure to $872,608. This compares with $90,871 in June, 1949, and $468,862 for the first half of the year in 1949.

Calona Wines Ltd. plans building on Gaston Avenue and Richter Street, while Victory Motors is putting up a new garage on the corner of Pendozi and Leon Avenue.

Last month four permits were issued for business buildings; five for alterations to business buildings; one for a public building; nine for new houses; 13 for alterations to houses; four garages; one outbuilding and four permits for signs.

Pete Scott In Two-Hitter For Year's Finest Local Pitching Performance

KELOWNA 7, KAMLOOPS ELKS 0
PITCHERS don't dish 'em up much better than Pete Scott did yesterday—unless it's a perfect game.

The Kelowna Elks Red Sox right-hander came within a couple of whiskers of turning in that perfect one, though, as he set the Kamloops Elks down on two hits to win a 7-0 ball game and hold on to second place in the B.C. Interior Baseball League.

Scott's masterful performance was the finest bit of twirling seen here this year. He gave up a single through the pitcher's box in the first inning and had a one-hitter from then on until the ninth when Kamloops' chucker Billy MacDonald, tagged one for a double.

In complete control of the situation, Scott struck out five and gave up no walks. For seven of the innings it was three up and three down while for the other two, four Elks faced Scott, for a total of 29 for the game.

Two Home Runs
The all-round standout of the game (offensively and defensively) was veteran Dave Newton, though his record was smeared somewhat by the only Kelowna bobbie.

Newton banged out three for five—a homer over the right field fence, a double and a single—and had a field day at second base, accepting 11 tries for two putouts and nine assists.

To Hank Tostenon went the honor of smashing out the first home run in Elks Stadium this year. The hard-hitting first baseman connected in the first inning with Kleibiski on first to drive in a pair of runs with a ball that cleared easily the left-centre fence, about 320 feet from home plate.

Sporadic rain and threat of more cut down the size of the usual Sunday crowd for this great home show by Scott. At the start of the sixth inning the game had to be halted for 10 minutes during a heavy downpour.

Meet Ads Wednesday
On Wednesday of this week the Sox get back into midweek action. Again it will be Rutland Adanacs providing the opposition at the Stadium, starting at 6:15 p.m.

In these crowd-pleasing, grudge meetings to date this year, both sides have come out on top, or by top-sided scores. Coach Dick Murray said he probably would start Ken Stewart, who did a fair amount of hurling back several years ago.

TIGERS TRIP UP KLIPPERS AGAIN

(Special to The Kelowna Courier)
KAMLOOPS—The revitalized Kamloops Klippers came closest in weeks in taking the league-leading Tigers into camp for a second time before going down to the Tigers 16-14 in a Interior Senior B Lacrosse League fixture here Saturday.

The win boosted the Tigers up to six points again over the runners-up Kelowna Bruins. Vernon now has 24 points, Kelowna 18, Kamloops 12 and Salmon Arm 8.

In a see-saw first period, the Klippers came out on top with a 5-4 lead. They nudged the margin up to 9-4 at the half but were cut down to a 13-12 edge by the end of the third quarter.

The last quarter was all Vernon's as the Tigers scored four times with only one reply from the battle-weary Klippers.

Lacrosse Aces Know Now What Bruins Can Really Do
If there was jubilation in Salmon Arm early last week at the Aces defeating Fred Oster's Kelowna Bruins for the third time there was a quick turnaround on Thursday when the Orchard City septet gave a convincing display of superiority.

In fact the 16-2 beating was administered so heartily and deliberately the scars of wounded pride will remain long after boxers give way in interior arenas to hockey.

Aces, missing a few key men, never really knew whether it was a tornado or a typhoon that hit them. They did know it was the worst licking they absorbed this year but how it happened was somewhat obscure.

Determination to even matters with the Aces contributed partly to one of the year's finest all-around Kelowna performances. In the year's Interior Lacrosse League battles. The eager will to win gave the team speed, preciseness, finesse and polish on a par or better than they have unfolded locally this year.

Not Same Team
It was a complete changeover from the time when the Aces last defeated the Bruins. At that time the Aces caught the Bruins with their defenses down and in a forgetful mood to go back home, even though short-handed, with a 12-10 verdict.

Another contributing factor may have been the explosive habit the boys got into at the start of the game. Nearly 10 minutes elapsed before either side could count but when it started the roof nearly fell in on busy Buzz Green in the Aces' net.

First it was Terry O'Brien, and then Ernie Bianco and then Doug Simpson—and then Bianco again—and then O'Brien. Five goals they rapped home in less time than it takes to tell it.

When the smoke had cleared from in front of the clock the dazzling scoring performance began to make sense. Bruins had just scored five goals in one minute and 58 seconds. Four of them came in 73 seconds.

Battle Hopeless Cause
But they didn't stop there. Don Girth, the home team's Bruins' sixth goal one minute and 20 seconds later and then Bianco completed his first quarter hat-trick 21 seconds later to leave the Aces wallowing under a 7-0 count going into the second stanza.

But did the Bruins let up after that? No! They seemed to have speed to burn and the Aces were just as willing to keep at it, hopelessly as the outcome appeared.

Burnie Feedham's gang made a belated attempt to get some sort of offensive action going in the third period, but before that session was very old it developed into a strictly defensive league, with neither side scoring during the whole 15 minutes.

The dead-serious Bruins completed the rout in the last quarter outscoring the Aces 6-1 and nipping in the bud any semblance of a Salmon Arm last-ditch show of strength. Kelowna pressure was so much in evidence, play was down at the Aces' end nearly all through the last 15 minutes.

BOX BANTER—For a while it looked as if the Bruins had at last found out how to beat BUZZ GREEN. But if he appeared easy in the first quarter he got right back into form for the rest of the game to become the SALMON ARM standout and one of the stars of the night. TONY AL LAPAGE was caught in a pincer's movement when way out of his cage and had the hordes on his back. . . . Both

NO-HITTER FOR ETHEL RAMSAY; MAY QUIT PRO HARLEM QUEENS

Rutland's Ethel Ramsay won herself fame and a great deal of publicity last week when she pitched a no-hitter in Vancouver to give her Chicago Harlem Queens a 2-0 victory over the highly-touted Vancouver Western Mutuals, a Senior A women's squad.

Miss Ramsay, the only Canadian girl on the Harlem Queens, who claim the Negro women's world's softball title, and who is dubbed by her team-mates as "B.C." and "Miss Satchel Paige," fanned six Mutuals and walked only two in her seven-inning stint.

The Vancouver Sun reported Ethel has received an offer to play with Mutuals and she is inclined to accept it. She joined the Queens this spring after several years of ball in the district here. She pitched for the Queens in a special Ethel Ramsay night here on June 30.

VERNON CAPS END SAME AS OTHER SOFTBALL NINES
Signs of things to come in the approaching Okanagan playoffs may have been witnessed at Athlete Oval last night when Kelowna Aces walloped the Vernon Capitals 10-1 in a women's exhibition softball game.

The classy Aces, who have lost only one game this year, and that one to the Chicago Harlem Queens, were a shoo-in from the start. Tiny Zena Rantucci helped her own pitching cause by hammering out her first home run in organized softball.

Doreen Underhill also got her first four-bagger in her three years with the Aces. Miss Rantucci gave up four hits while L. Marwick gave up nine for Vernon.

FISH LICENCE CHANGE WILL BE OPPOSED

Kelowna Board of Trade decided to oppose an Enderby resolution presented at the Okanagan-Mathline Associated Boards of Trade meeting Thursday held at Armstrong. The Enderby resolution asked for a reduction in the cost of non-resident fishing licences in this province.

The resolution sponsors stated many U.S. tourists will not pay the present $7 fishing licence fee and, consequently, curtail their stay in the province. They argued that if the $7 season licence must be maintained, there should be in addition, a per day fee of $1, or the season fee reduced to $5.00.

Following the recommendation of the committee which studied the matter, the executive of the Kelowna board decided against supporting the resolution. The basis of the decision was that licence fees are designed to conserve resources and that no holiday fisherman would quibble about the $2 entailed, if he wanted to fish. The local delegation however was instructed to urge that the licence fee monies should all be applied to restocking purposes rather than put into the consolidated revenue of the province.

CASEY BEST AT MEET
Young Dennis Casey won individual honors at the opening twilight track meet last Wednesday night sponsored by Kelowna Athletic Round Table. Casey captured both the juvenile high jump with his 4' 2 1/2" and the 75 yards dash.

FIRST LOT OF CHERRIES LEAVE SOUTH

First cherries from the Oliver-Osoyoos area have arrived on the market, according to B.C. Tree Fruits. The cherry date, which will be about five percent of last year's yield, is finding good demand on the fresh fruit market. No cherries will be canned this year.

Supply of cabbage is exceeding the demand due to Ontario produce being earlier than usual. Cucumbers are moving in volume, chiefly to Western Canada. First straight car lot of early potatoes left the south end of the valley this week. Californian potatoes are resulting in keen competition.

Demand for head lettuce has fallen off due to production elsewhere.

STORK TOO FAST FOR TAXI DRIVER

SICAMOUS—Stork and taxi ran one and two in a race recently from Sicamous to the Enderby hospital.

J. L. Cameron, local taxi operator, was the loser when the stork caught up with his car and Mrs. W. S. Thomson between Mara and Grindrod.

Mother and infant son both were progressing well at the Enderby hospital according to last reports.

B.C. FISHING PERMIT SETUP CRITICIZED

Robert Beech, president of the Revelstoke Board of Trade, was elected president of the Okanagan-Mainline Association. Board of Trade at the annual meeting held in Armstrong on Thursday, J. Monteith of Kelowna, was named vice-president and J. A. Abrahamson, of Revelstoke, secretary.

The meeting went on record protesting the registration of conditional sale agreements by the provincial government. Since the war these fees have increased from 25 cents to $2. The resolution recommends a return to the dollar fee which is said to be more in line with the increased charges for other services. It was felt that the present $2 fee would work as a detriment to small conditional sales and would be a hardship on many small purchasers.

The matter of fishing licences and the general enforcement of fish and game regulations was discussed, at some length. Enderby and Faulkland each had submitted resolutions asking for changes in the fishing licence fees but neither of these resolutions met with the approval of the meeting.

Study Situation However, the association did set up a special committee to make a thorough study of the whole matter of fishing licence fees and to prepare a report for the October meeting.

One feature of the present regulations which came in for a considerable amount of adverse comment was the fact that no persons may be in possession of fishing equipment without a licence. Many speakers objected to this as "high-handed" and an assumption that the person concerned was a law-breaker.

Those who favored a change in the licence fee setup principally attacked the present season fee of $7 per person. Some argued that a return to the per day fee was necessary for casual U.S. fishermen, while others felt that a family fee should be established to cover several members of the family rather than the present individual fee.

The B.C. Council of Associated Boards of Trade came in for some comment. This organization is composed of representatives of the various district associations of which there are six in the province. Some speakers felt that it would be more effective if the basis of its discussions were widened, and argued that this could be done if the various boards themselves were members rather than the district associations.

MILK HEARING WILL BE HELD ON THURSDAY

E. C. Carr, chairman of B.C.'s milk board, has called a public meeting to be held in the Vernon Fruit Union plant next Thursday at 10:30 a.m., to deal with applications requesting the setting up of a milk board comprising the whole of the Okanagan Valley and the districts centered around the cities of Kamloops and Revelstoke.

In a letter sent out to interested parties, Mr. Carr said applications for the valley-wide controlled area had been received from the Armstrong Cheese Co-operative Association, the Vernon and the Shawanigan Okanagan Dairy Industries Co-operative Association, Vernon.

He said the board also received and held hearings in connection with applications from interested parties to have the City of Kelowna and vicinity, and the South Okanagan prescribed as controlled areas. Decision of the board, in connection with these two applications is pending.

"In view of the fact that the application from Armstrong and Vernon included the two areas in which the board has already held hearings, the board is of the opinion that before holding a hearing to deal with this latest application, a meeting of all interested parties should be held in order that everyone may become fully acquainted with the functions and duties of the board, and to provide for a full discussion of all matters which might arise from the establishment of one board."

Mr. Carr stated in his circular.
